I'd be happy to come speak at anyone's school on pandemic flu

I've had the honor of speaking at medical and public health schools across the country over the last few months on emerging zoonotic diseases (focusing on pandemic flu) and may be in your neck of the woods this Spring. I'd be happy to stop by if anyone's interested in setting up a lunchtime talk for the 1st and 2nd years.

My recently released book upon which the presentation is based is available free, full-text online at <http://www.BirdFluBook.org> (and all the proceeds I receive from the book go to charity). It was actually reviewed in last week's Nature I'm excited to say! :)

If you'd like me to come speak at your school, please do me the favor of filling out the following little questionnaire which will help me coordinate my speaking dates:

Hope school's going well!
